49. Probative effect of second contravention etc. (1) Where, upon the hearing of a charge of an offence against a provision of this Act, it is shown that any person so charged has previously been prosecuted in respect of a contravention of or failure to comply with this Act or the Health Act 1937-1980 in any similar (though not necessarily identical) respect occurring within a period of 3 years before the contravention or failure to comply to which the charge relates, it shall be deemed that the contravention or failure to comply to which the charge relates has occurred with the knowledge and approval of that person unless he proves—

- (a) that the contravention or failure to comply to which the charge relates was due to the act or default of a person over whom he had no control; and
- (b) that he exercised due diligence to ensure that the contravention or failure to comply to which the charge relates did not occur.

(2) In the application of subsection (1), it is immaterial that upon a prosecution in respect of a contravention or failure to comply occurring within the period of 3 years referred to in that subsection the defendant was not convicted for any reason other than that the contravention or failure to comply had not been proved.

(3) Where, in connexion with a charge of an offence against a provision of this Act, it is intended to make reference to a prosecution of any defendant in respect of a contravention of or failure to comply with this Act or the Health Act 1937-1980 occurring within the period of 3 years referred to in subsection (1), a notice of intention to make such reference shall be served with the summons to answer the charge.

An endorsement on a copy of a notice under this subsection that the notice was duly served with the summons shall be evidence and, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, conclusive evidence of that service and, if the defendant to whom the notice relates is not present in person before the court, it may take account of the prosecution to which the notice relates as if the defendant had appeared and admitted it.

(4) Where proof of a contravention of or failure to comply with this Act or the Health Act 1937-1980 occurring on an occasion within a period of 3 years referred to in subsection (1) depends upon an analysis of any article and there exists a certificate of such analysis, a copy of such certificate may be served with the summons to answer the charge to which that occasion is relevant; whereupon its service may be evidenced as provided by section 45 (2), and section 46 shall apply in respect of the certificate.

50. Liability for offence by servant. (1) Notwithstanding sections 7 and 23 of The Criminal Code or any other Act, law or practice, where a person commits an offence against this Act as a servant, the employer of that person shall be deemed to have taken part in committing the offence and to be guilty of the offence and may be charged with committing the offence.

It is immaterial that the offence was committed without the authority of or contrary to the instructions of the employer.

(2) A person is not liable to be convicted of an offence against this Act committed by him as a servant if he satisfies the court that the offence was committed while the business of his employer was being conducted under the personal superintendence of that employer or of a manager or any other representative of that employer and that the offence was committed with the knowledge of that employer, manager or representative.

(3) Save as provided by subsection (2), this section applies so as not to prejudice liability imposed by or under this Act on any person by whom an offence against this Act is actually committed.

- (b) every person who at the time the offence is committed manages or acts or takes part in the management, administration or government of the business in Queensland thereof.

(2) This section applies so as not to limit or affect in any way the liability of a body corporate to be proceeded against and punished for an offence against this Act committed by it.

(3) It is a defence to a charge for an offence against this Act brought against a person specified in subsection (1) (a) or (1) (b) to prove that the offence was committed without that person's consent or connivance and that he exercised due diligence to prevent the commission of the offence.

52. Right of defendant to have third person before court. (1) A defendant charged with an offence against this Act who alleges that the contravention or failure to comply constituting the offence was due to the act or default of another person may, upon compliance with this section, have that other person brought before the court by which the proceeding is to be heard and determined.

(2) A defendant who desires to invoke this section—

- (a) shall give to the complainant and the court, at least 10 days before the return day of the summons in question, notice in writing of his intention to do so;
- (b) shall make a complaint before a justice of the allegations against the other person; and
- (c) shall forthwith file in the court the complaint so made.

(3) The court shall thereupon issue a summons directed to the other person requiring him to appear before the court on the date and at the time and place specified in the summons and where that date is not the return date of the original summons in the proceeding shall enter necessary adjournments and notify the parties accordingly.

A copy of the complaint made under subsection (2) shall be served with the summons issued by the court on that complaint together with copies of such other documents filed in the proceeding as the court determines.

  - (ii) may call evidence in rebuttal;

(b) the court—

- (i) may convict the other person if the contravention of or failure to comply with this Act is proved and the original defendant satisfies the court that the contravention or failure to comply was due to the act or default of that other person; and
- (ii) shall dismiss the complaint against the original defendant and discharge him, if in addition he satisfies the court that he has exercised due diligence to ensure compliance with the provisions of this Act in question;
- (iii) may make such orders as to costs of the proceeding or any step therein as it thinks fit.

(5) Where it appears to the Director-General that an offence against this Act has been committed in respect of which some person may be charged and the Director-General is reasonably satisfied that—

- (a) the offence was due to the act or default of some other person; and
- (b) the firstmentioned person could successfully defend a proceeding in respect of the offence by invoking this section, the Director-General may cause to be instituted proceedings against that other person for that offence without proceedings first being instituted against the firstmentioned person.

(6) In a proceeding in accordance with subsection (5) that other person may be charged with the offence with which the firstmentioned person might have been charged and, on proof that the offence was due to the act or default of that other person, he may be convicted of the offence.
