- (3) A period mentioned in subsection (1)(b) is the restricted access period for the public record. 10 11
- (4) Also, if the archivist changes a period of time under section 40, the new period is taken to be the restricted access period for the record. 12

- (6) In this section—
- last action, for a public record—
- (a) means the last action of recording information for the record; but

[s 39]

Division 4	Other restrictions on access	1
39	Refusal if access not practicable	2
	The archivist may refuse a person access to a public record if—	3 4
	(a) the record’s preservation would be detrimentally affected by giving access to the record; or	5 6
	(b) the record is reasonably available for purchase by members of the public under arrangements made by a public authority; or	7 8 9
	(c) the record is only able to be produced or made available with the use of particular equipment, systems or technology that the archives does not have or is unable to reasonably obtain for use.	10 11 12 13
40	Refusal in prescribed circumstances	14
	(1) A regulation may prescribe the circumstances in which the archivist may—	15 16
	(a) refuse a person access to a public record; or	17
	(b) restrict access by the public to a public record for a period of more than 100 years.	18 19
	(2) Without limiting subsection (1), the prescribed circumstances may include—	20 21
	(a) the archivist being satisfied that access to a public record would not, on balance, be in the public interest; and	22 23 24
	(b) the archivist being satisfied that access to a public record would inappropriately reveal culturally sensitive information or personal information.	25 26 27
	(3) For applying subsection (1), the regulation may also prescribe any of the following matters—	28 29
	(a) procedures applying to the archivist refusing or restricting access;	30 31

(b)	matters to be considered by the archivist for refusing or restricting access;	1 2
(c)	maximum periods of time for restricting access.	3
41	Forms of access	4
(1)	Access to a public record may be given to a person—	5
(a)	by allowing the person a reasonable opportunity to inspect the record; or	6 7
(b)	by giving the person a copy of the record; or	8
(c)	if subsection (2), (3) or (4) applies to the record—by the form of access stated in the subsection.	9 10
(2)	Access may be given by making arrangements for the person to hear the sounds or view the images or writings if the public record is something from which sounds or visual images or writings are capable of being reproduced.	11 12 13 14
(3)	Access may be given by giving the person a written transcript of the words recorded or contained in the public record if the record is something—	15 16 17
(a)	by which words are recorded in a way in which the words are capable of being reproduced in the form of sound; or	18 19 20
(b)	in which words are contained in the form of shorthand writing or in a codified form.	21 22
(4)	Access may be given by giving the person a written document containing information if—	23 24
(a)	the public record is not a written record; and	25
(b)	the archivist or the responsible public authority is able to create a written document containing the information using equipment usually available to the archivist or authority for retrieving or collating electronically stored information.	26 27 28 29 30

[s 42]

- (5) If the person asks for access to the public record in a particular and reasonably practical way, access must be given in that way. 1
2
3
- (6) However, access to the public record may be given in another way decided by the archivist if the archivist considers giving access to the record in the way requested by the person— 4
5
6
- (a) would interfere unreasonably with the operations of the archives or the responsible public authority; or 7 8
- (b) would be detrimental to the preservation of the record; or 9
10
- (c) would be inappropriate, having regard to the nature of the record; or 11 12
- (d) would involve an infringement of copyright of a person other than the State. 13
14
- (7) The archivist may— 15
- (a) impose reasonable conditions on accessing a public record; and 16 17
- (b) if access is given by way of a copy or transcript of a public record—impose a reasonable charge for the copy or transcript. 18
19
20
- (8) This section does not prevent the archivist giving a person access to a public record in another form agreed to by the person. 21
