41B Rapid intoxication drinks—Act, s 155AG(b)

- (1) For section 155AG(b) of the Act, the following types of drinks are prescribed—
 - (a) a drink, served in a small glass or other small container that allows the drink to be consumed rapidly, if it is—
 - (i) a drink commonly known as a shot, shooter, bomb, blaster or test tube; or
 - (ii) a jelly shot; or
 - (iii) another drink, however described, that is similar to a drink mentioned in subparagraph (i) or (ii);
 - (b) a drink, prepared on licensed premises or premises to which a permit relates, that contains more than 45ml of spirits or liqueur;
 - (c) a pre-mixed alcoholic drink that is either or both of the following—

- (i) a drink in which the level of ethyl alcohol (ethanol) is more than 5% by volume;
- (ii) a drink that contains more ethyl alcohol (ethanol) than 2 standard drinks.

Examples for paragraph (c)—

- a drink in which the amount of ethyl alcohol (ethanol) is 10% by volume and the equivalent of 1.6 standard drinks
 - a drink in which the amount of ethyl alcohol (ethanol) is 4.8% by volume and the equivalent of 2.5 standard drinks
 - a drink in which the amount of ethyl alcohol (ethanol) is 6% by volume and the equivalent of 3.1 standard drinks
- (2) Subsection (1)(b) does not include a drink that is a cocktail if—
 - (a) the cocktail is listed on a document (a cocktail menu) prepared by the licensee for licensed premises, or the permittee for premises to which a permit relates, and displayed on the premises; and
 - (b) the cocktail's price is listed on the cocktail menu; and
 - (c) during the restricted period the cocktail is not sold for less than the price listed on the cocktail menu for the cocktail; and
 - (d) the cocktail is not designed to be consumed rapidly.
 - (3) In this section—

jelly shot means the product described in section 42A(1A).

pre-mixed alcoholic drink means an alcoholic mixed drink prepared by a manufacturer.
